

Making BC's roads safer was an easy call.

An overwhelming majority of British Columbians support restricting cellphone use by drivers.

Beginning January 1, talking, typing, texting or dialing on a handheld cellphone or any handheld portable electronic device while driving is against the law. The fine is $167. Texting or emailing while driving gets you an extra 3 penalty points. For new drivers, there will be a full ban on all cellphone and electronic devices including hands-free. This will help keep them focused and make the roads safer for everyone.
