1. Opening Remarks from Co-Chair, Mayor Malcolm Brodie	11:00am	Mayor Malcolm Brodie Welcome to the 6th Weekly Richmond COVID-19 community task force meeting. I just read a news alert that the number of COVID cases worldwide has topped 3 million. Having gone into our 6th week of discussions, we are reminded that in certain places (e.g. Saskatchewan and Georgia, USA), they are talking about getting back up and running and planning to reopen everything. We are in the thick of things but in a time of transition. Roll call You may remember that last week I was talking about extending the tax payment date. The tax payment date has been extended for businesses and residents to September. We are encouraging people to pay on July 2nd. We are also discussing a 2% reduction to taxes, which must go to public consultation.
2. Opening Remarks from Co-Chair, Fan Chun	11:06am	Fan Chun Let's proceed with Dr. Dawar's update.

3. Update from Vancouver Coastal Health	11:06am	Dr. Meena Dawar We are in day 41 since the declaration of provincial public health emergency. We are nearing the 2000 mark of cases. Yesterday the posted update was 1948 cases. Unfortunately, 100 deaths were reported at end of day Apr 25th. The province will announce an update today. Most cases are now within Fraser Health authority (the most populated region), followed by Vancouver Coastal Health. Since last Monday we've had updates on outbreaks in the poultry processing plant and corrections facilities. This is a reminder that the virus is still out there. Our flattening of the curve is due to the extraordinary measures we have taken. The virus will find its way where these measures cannot or have not been taken. As we look to ease restrictions, we need to pay strict attention to hand hygiene and physical distancing. Letter to municipalities and operators of outdoor recreation facilities: Last week Vancouver Coastal Health sent a letter to all municipalities supported by VCH, as well as operators of outdoor recreation facilities. We have asked that municipalities and operators look to reopening these facilities, given that they are not closed by the provincial health order. These include parks, dog parks, playgrounds, picnic areas, walking, running and cycling areas etc. We know there is little transmission that occurs in outdoor spaces. We do think it is time to think ahead to how these can be safely operated. We are open and available to questions. Saskatchewan has announced that they are looking ahead to reopening. New Brunswick has followed suit. Ontario just published a framework for reopening today. Certainly, all provinces are moving forward, as we have to. The virus will be with us for the next many months and we need to look ahead to how we can get back to the new normal. Websites to visit regarding trials: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Registry of vaccine trials hosted by the London School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene site: https://vac-lshtm.shinyapps.io/ncov_vaccine_landscape/</li> <li>• Registry of clinical trials: https://www.covid-trials.org</li> </ul> Questions: Mayor Brodie: Regarding the letter to municipalities: The comments that many have made have been about the very strong need for coordination between the authorities (municipalities, provincial and federal) so that everyone is taking relatively the same approach. Dr. Dawar: I know that conversations are happening at a provincial level. I am not privy to those conversations. We wanted to make sure municipalities are starting to think about this. Can you share more about what you mean regarding coordination of support at a local level?
-------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

		Mayor Brodie: For instance, Vancouver Coastal Health has issued this letter but Fraser Health has not. If municipalities aren't doing the same thing at the same time, you are going to have a really uncoordinated approach, which could bring problems of its own. Dr. Dawar: We have made Fraser Health aware of this letter. At the moment, they are busy dealing with current outbreaks. We are in a different phase of the outbreak than even Fraser Health is (our numbers were higher for a long time). They have caught up and now exceed our numbers. They are a bit behind in the progression of the illness. It is quite okay for some municipalities to begin by taking the lead. Matt Pitcairn: You mentioned that SK and ON have released reopening plans. I know for me personally and our members, we are anxious for a light at the end of the tunnel. Which conversations are happening in BC regarding reopening plans? When can we hope for an update from the province? Dr. Dawar: I work in the local front lines of public health. I am not operating at the provincial level and I can't provide any details. Lorraine Graves: The Coast Guard has said they are looking at a ban on recreation boating. Why not institute practical suggestions to reduce risk (fueling up at home, anchoring out, etc.) rather than hard rules? Dr. Dawar: Cannot comment as that is outside our jurisdiction.
4. Update from the City of Richmond	11:16am	Mayor Brodie Mayor Brodie's update given in opening remarks. Cecilia Achiam: Planning for Facilities Reopening – the CAO is working with the Regional Administrators Advisory Committee on this topic as a coordinated approach is important to all cities. A request will be made of the Province to provide leadership for this coordinated approach and timing; in the meantime, staff are working on plans which provide for a gradual, phased approach that is consistent with the Medical Health Officer's advice. Business Licence Renewal check in – We are seeing a much higher number of businesses not renewing their licences. As part of recovery preparation, staff will be checking in with them by phone to see how they are doing and if they intend to carry on after COVID-19. The City will not be issuing fines or asking these businesses for payment. Daily Patrols by Community Bylaw Officers &amp; Community Ambassadors – This approach continues to be a successful in gaining compliance on social distancing through education. The number of COVID-19 related calls for service remain stable.

		Katie Ferland: Much anticipated federal Emergency Wage Subsidy Program opened today. It's designed to help prevent further job losses, and position organizations to resume normal operations after the crisis by having their workforce in place. In some cases, businesses can rehire workers that they've laid off if it makes sense for them. This is a significant program that went through some iterations based on direct feedback from businesses. Although not applicable to every single business, CFIB estimates that more than half of small firms plan to use it, so we're hoping to see a positive impact here in Richmond. Reality is that many workers are still out of jobs, so one of the things we're doing is sharing local job opportunities on the businessinrichmond.ca website. Many of the jobs are what you'd expect right now, they're in food production, grocery, logistics. But there are also positions in other fields like software development, engineering and biotech. Some local companies that are hiring for these positions include Sierra Wireless, ZE Power, Photon Control and Wenco Mining. Lastly the City continues to use our Business Support Center to make sure that these programs and initiatives are communicated broadly and any business that has questions or concerns, can get the answers and support they need by visiting the website, emailing businesshelp@richmond.ca or phone 604-276-4114. On April 29th, a Richmond Food Network Webinar is taking place. Local meal programs and social agencies are invited to attend this webinar and sign up to this program. Kim Somerville: Staff continue to support all the organizations working with vulnerable populations. Last week a Seniors Resource Guide for the pandemic was developed and posted on the City's website, and sent to key stakeholders.
5. Update from the Chamber of Commerce	11:21am	Matt Pitcairn Recent Pulse Check: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The most recent Pulse Check survey was for the period of April 9 April 17th. We have provincial results to share now.</li> <li>• Approximately half of all businesses (54% up from 48% in the first survey) state they have experienced revenue decreases of 75% or more while two-thirds (66%) have had revenues drop by 50% or more.</li> <li>• The top operating cost or expenses were wages (64%) followed by rent (54%), taxes (34%), and goods and supplies (32%).</li> </ul> We are seeing impacts in our own membership and among the business community at large. We will not be dropping any members during this period and are doing whatever we can to support the business community.

The CRA portal for the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy opened today. This is going to have a big impact on businesses. We are encouraging members to apply as soon as possible. I believe the target date to have money in accounts is May 7th.

The other thing we are eagerly anticipating is the Commercial Rent Subsidy. The Federal government came out with details on Friday. There are many unanswered questions and we are looking to see what that program will look like in BC. May 1st is right around the corner.

Last Wednesday, we hosted a successful Virtual Town Hall with the Minister of Middle Class Prosperity and Associate Minister of Finance. Approximately 50 guests joined the call. If you missed the event and would like to view it, a video can be found on our website: <https://www.richmondchamber.ca/2020/04/24/virtual-town-hall-with-minister-fortier/>

We are hosting our second Virtual Happy Hour this Thursday at 4pm. Again, I invite you all to join us. <https://www.richmondchamber.ca/event/virtual-happy-hour-april-30/>

Fan Chun:

One of the new normal is for businesses to move their platforms online. And on the demand side, as people are isolating at home, they are shopping more online. We are experiencing delays in our logistics partners including Canada Post. One consistent message we heard from them and I quote is that they are experiencing “Christmas-level volumes” which means businesses are sending, processing and delivering parcels at levels only experienced during the busiest weeks of the Christmas season. Also, the health and safety concerns of people in the logistics industry are always on our minds too. Finally, I am happy to share that as business and people are eagerly waiting for the end of this pandemic.

Collectively, we are still handling the situation with understanding and patience. And we remain hopeful.

Questions:

James Ho: The new rental assistance program, can you comment on this again?

Matt Pitcairn:

- On Friday, the Federal government announced some details of the Commercial Rent Relief plan, which would give a 75-per-cent break on rent for qualifying businesses for three months, retroactive to April.
- The Canada Emergency Commercial Rent Assistance program offers loans to qualifying commercial property owners to cover 50 per cent of tenant rent payments for

		April, May and June. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Businesses that will qualify for the break are those that have had to close their doors or suffered at least a 70-per-cent loss in pre-COVID-19 revenue, but require a landlord's co-operation to sign on. (This is a very high level of revenue loss)</li> <li>• Loans are intended to be a bridge for landlords and will be forgiven if a mortgaged property owner agrees to cut the rents of eligible tenants by at least 75 per cent for the three months and pledge not to evict tenants</li> <li>• It is a bit too early to gauge public response. We are still waiting to see how many businesses it will cover.</li> </ul>
6. Update from YVR	11:28am	Craig Richmond Passenger numbers continue to fluctuate daily but YVR continues to see daily volumes decline by more than 90% when compared to last year's traffic. YVR remains down to less than half of its normal terminal in operation. Update on Air Cargo Operations Traditionally, 70% of cargo at YVR is carried on the belly of passenger aircraft so cargo capacity has been adversely impacted by the reduction in passenger traffic. In response, many air carriers have converted passenger aircraft to operate cargo only, which is helping to bring in much needed personal protective equipment and medical supplies. The shift towards online retail is benefitting major e-commerce players such as Amazon and their contracted air cargo partners. Airline Update Air Canada announced last week that it has suspended all service to the United States until May 22, subject to further government restrictions. Westjet also announced a significant decrease to its domestic flight schedule and further employee layoffs. Government Screening YVR is working closely with its government partners to address the ongoing pandemic: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The Government of Canada requires that all travellers wear non-medical masks or face coverings when at airports and on aircraft. Airport employees and business partners must also wear proper face coverings.</li> <li>• Arriving passengers are encouraged to download the new ArriveCAN mobile app to provide screening agencies with required health information, reduce wait times and limit contact upon arrival.</li> </ul>

7. Update from Richmond School District 38	11:30am	Scott Robinson <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Students returning to school: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. The Minister of Education has signaled in media that it is possible that schools will begin to re-open in some way perhaps at some point in mid to late May. School districts haven't been given any further information on what that might look like or when it might occur. I would anticipate receiving additional guidance on this return to schools in the coming weeks.</li> <li>b. As students and staff begin to return to schools over the next few weeks, we'll continue to work closely with Vancouver Coastal Health to ensure that an appropriate level of health and safety protocols remain in place for our students and staff.</li> <li>c. As discussed last week, a small number of students in some schools will be returning to school part time this week. These are students who, for a variety of reasons, are considered vulnerable and require face to face contact with educators and support staff at school. This is being handled on a case by case basis with schools and families.</li> </ol> </li> <li>2. Food support for families in need: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>a. The district continues to support many families in our community who are struggling to make ends meet. We're seeing an increase in the number of families who need help with food support as more and more parents are losing income during the pandemic.</li> <li>b. The district continues to work with community partners to gather food products for weekly hampers for these families. We're also continuing to raise additional funds both to support a greater number of families and also to provide more food to the families we're already supporting. We have an active link on the district website for members of the community who wish to make financial donations.</li> <li>c. We're grateful for the donations that have already been coming in from groups and are hopeful that we will be able to increase the number of donations so we can support more of our students and their families.</li> <li>d. Donation Link:  https://www.sd38.bc.ca/Pages/donations.aspx#/= </li> </ol> </li> </ol>

8. Update from Tourism Richmond	11:32am	Nancy Small Over the past week Tourism Richmond has been focusing on looking to the restart – and what that could look like within the tourism industry. There are some models we are looking at which could be: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Some travel restrictions eased mid-late summer</li> <li>2. Relaxation in the fall</li> <li>3. Relaxation in 2021</li> </ol> We do know this will be a very measured approach by our health authorities. We will be creating tactics that will position Richmond appropriately – as a place where visitors want to come. There is also a lot of work being done about best practices and guidelines and standards for our business within different sectors. We will provide these as they come available. We have been working as a coordinated effort within our tourism partners in Metro Vancouver. And have garnered a lot of interest from the media over the past week – as we work to inform our government partners about what is working and what is not in terms of government programs. The City of Richmond, Richmond Chamber of Commerce, and Tourism Richmond have collaborated with the objective of providing resources, support, and connecting Richmond businesses and Richmond residents. The lead element of this program is a website, WeAreRichmond.com, which will serve as a hub and connection point for residents and businesses We will have sections that showcase experiences from Richmond that viewer can experience from home – online exhibitions and other online experiences, restaurants doing take-out and delivery, etc. We will have sections that showcase how residents can support their local businesses and also how they can access resources that have been made available from the City, Province and Feds.
9. Update from Richmond MLAs	11:36am	MLA Jas Johal Our constituency offices continue to deal with a tremendous amount of calls. Many of these are from seniors. Many calls are also from small business owners looking for information to access federal and provincial programs. We have also received many calls regarding EI benefits. A question the opposition will be asking the government is: What is the economic plan in regard to recovery? We are going to be focusing on getting the government on track for recovery. Regarding recovery plans: There have been so specific dates for announcing a BC plan. I expect something probably early next week. At that point, we should get a better idea of what their plan will be.

		The opposition is going to be asking for a business plan as a province, making sure we can slowly get back to work, while making public safety a priority. Questions:  Mayor Brodie: Dr. Dawar talked about the need to coordinate on the health side of this with Saskatchewan, who is slowly starting to ramp up their economy. Is there close coordination between our government and Saskatchewan's? Jas Johal: There is coordination between opposition and government quite closely. That is occurring across the country. Our provincial economies are so interconnected that these broader conversations are occurring across premiers and health ministers as well. Nancy Small: As other provinces are creating roadmaps to reopening, pressure is going to start coming from BC stakeholders to put plans in place. Jas Johal: Our desire to work with the government when it comes to public safety and health. However, reopening business is the other side of that. We are now going to focus the conversation on how we can reopen the economy. The conversation will change in that respect.
10. Update from the Richmond MPs	11:40am	Jordan Wood, representing MP Kenny Chiu Update on Lorraine Graves' question regarding the Canada Summer Jobs application deadline: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Service Canada will solicit applications to essential services</li> <li>• No additional application period</li> <li>• No additional funding (Meaning that any new job takes away from an existing job)</li> </ul> This past week our office has maintained a consistent level of constituent inquiry into COVID-19 assistance at the individual level. We have been able to promptly respond and assist those inquiring about the Canada Emergency Response Benefit, EI, and business aid programs and will continue to do so throughout the duration of the COVID-19 relief programs. We have noticed that more concerns are coming in from individuals who fear they are slipping through the cracks. This is either because they do not meet the income requirements to qualify for CERB or because they represent an exceptional circumstance which the program does not account for. These concerns are being handled on a case by case basis. Additionally, we are exploring new avenues to represent concerns directly in government as the House of Commons partially resumes in its limited format. For businesses, the inquiries we have received are primarily focussed

		on why their financial institution is not offering the Canadian Emergency Business Account. Mr.Chiu has asked officials during the daily parliamentary briefing and received the response that the list of institutions offering the program is growing, so if a business is unable to obtain the loan now, they should be able to shortly. To aid in our efforts, our office has been compiling a list of helpful government contacts. This list includes supports for business and individual concerns and we will make it available to all interested members of this call if they contact our office by email at Kenny.Chiu@parl.gc.ca. Lorraine Graves: TV and movie production is one of the top 4 industries in the province of BC. It indirectly and directly is responsible for 10s of thousands of jobs. However, many of those jobs are in small businesses. Many can't access federal assistance programs because they don't offer T4s. They take draws or dividends, and it is contract based work. We need to keep this sector going in this province. How are they going to be able to apply for CEWS and CEBA to keep them alive, and ready to reopen before California? What can be done? It's not just this industry that operates on the basis of contracts that are individuals. Jordan Wood: Unfortunately, I can't provide an in-depth answer to that question. We are familiar with some of what you are asking. Our office has sent letters to Ministerial offices requesting clarification on these programs. We are still awaiting a response. Mayor Brodie: Please follow that up and please provide a response to the Chamber to be forwarded to the RCCTF.
11. Update from Richmond RCMP	11:47am	Supt. Will Ng We are still making efforts to have a strong presence in the community and keeping pressure up on prolific property offenders. There were no arsons in the past week, though there is still an active investigation. Officers remain healthy and at work. Calls remain steady. Officers are still stationed at YVR dealing with unwanted visitors. Questions: Mayor Brodie: Have we seen an increase of porch package theft? Spt. Ng: We have not noticed an increase in thefts of porch packages lately. Matt Pitcairn: What is driving the migration of individuals experiencing homelessness to YVR?

		Supt. Ng: It is for shelter. They are looking for a place with a roof so that they can stay indoors. Maria Rantanen: Can you share numbers of how many people have been coming to YVR? What is the RCMP doing when they encounter them? Supt. Ng: One of two per evening at YVR. Officers are providing referrals to homeless shelters where the visitors can find a place to stay. Most are taking the train back to Vancouver. James Ho: Has Richmond encountered any of the hate crimes that have been happening in other parts of the lower mainland? Supt. Ng: I don't know of any in Richmond to date. Sacha Peter: How much of the quarantine act enforcement has taken place in Richmond? What should a member of the public do if they have reason to suspect a violation of the quarantine act? Supt. Ng: The public health agency of Canada has a hotel locally that provides shelter for those coming off international flights. They have been asked to quarantine for 14 days. We have been asked to assist when a few individuals are not abiding by instructions. Usually, it's the public health agency that reaches out for assistance. Though it a member of the public has questions, they can reach out to the police for assistance.
12. Update from Richmond Fire Rescue	11:50am	Chief Tim Wilkinson Richmond Fire Rescue continues with staff being healthy. We can provide full service at this time. Emergency operations are still occurring as regular. Last week, BC Emergency Health Services added back into RFR call volume the overdose response. This has been normal levels. Training continues. We are required to maintain mandatory training levels but are mindful of social distancing and keeping classed to less than 10 people. We are reopening our building inspection system, starting with businesses that may reopen shortly and schools. PPE stock is holding up well and have all necessary supplies. We are putting together our plan for business resumptions.
13. Questions/ Comments/ Collaboration	11:54pm	James Ho: There is a 17 minute documentary on Netflix called Coronavirus Explained. It is very well done and I highly recommend that everyone watch it. Matt Pitcairn: Craig Richmond, what do you expect for our global airline industry? I know we saw huge growth at YVR in terms of airlines and flights. Prices were low. What do you think some of the impacts coming out of this will be?

		Craig Richmond: Aviation is one of the hardest hit industries and will take some time to recover. Within the next month or two, we'll be able to release some predictions. Mayor Brodie: Are all classes virtual at KPU and TWU? Rebecca Swaim: We are entirely online and just started a new cohort today for undergrad. We are thankful for our numbers being strong but curious to see how things will be impacted in our international student community.
